

Money flows to me

Money flows to me.

I find that money flows to me readily and easily. My life is like a large river being fed by multiple streams of money that are forever flowing. My life is bursting at the seams from all the money that comes into my life.

In the past, I may have been challenged by my financial situation. But now I find that money flows easily into my life. I know that I am the cause of this turnaround.

My thoughts are focused on generating and receiving wealth. I deserve all the money that flows to me.

I am constantly amazed at how money just seems to find me. It pops up in unexpected places. Seemingly hidden sources of money are available to me at all times. I merely need to keep my eyes open to see and benefit from these sources.

At night, I meditate for few moments and concentrate on money. While meditating, I gain tremendous insight to how the universe deals with money and wealth. I apply this insight in my daily life. The result is money flowing to me from every direction.

I regularly find lost change on the ground. I know that by accepting these small tokens of wealth, I am able to also accept bigger opportunities to earn and receive greater amounts of money.

Today, I allow more money to flow into my life. My resistance to money is completely gone. I am open to all the wealth and abundance that the universe provides.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. In what ways do I resist money coming to me?
2. What thoughts about money should I change so that they will better serve me?
3. Do I regularly track my income and acknowledge my windfalls?
