The Government of Saskatchewan has provided guidelines for sport to return to activity. Sask Sport has requested Provincial Sport Organizations to develop Return to Sport Guidelines to support member clubs in their return to sport. Saskatchewan Racquetball's Return to Play Plan is based on the guidelines published by the Government of Saskatchewan, Racquetball Canada's Guide for Players resource documents and other stakeholder resources. Prior to restarting, SRA Member clubs should use these guidelines to work towards a careful and gradual restart of club activities.

In the process of developing a club's Return to Play Plan, one size does not fit all. Each club/league/facility has unique issues which need to be factored into their plan. Modifications and changes to standard practice protocols will be required, and these modifications will need to be practical and tailored to your unique facility and participant needs. While there can be some flexibility in a club's plan, all racquetball and racquetball- related training activities in Saskatchewan must operate within current provincial health restrictions to promote the safety of our communities. All clubs are asked to attest that the club has clear policies that include but are not limited to ensure:

- Compliance with Public Health measures which includes but is not limited to anyone with symptoms not attending any club specific or related activity.
- Participants are able to participate in a secure environment where physical distancing, personal hygiene and safe social interactions are enforced.
- Coaches or other leaders displaying related symptoms are able to be off sick and at home to enable self-isolation for 14 days (at minimum).
- Coaches, officials and players have fewer club related contacts (shorter times, fewer people), through such measures as staggered game times, smaller training groups, occupancy limits, virtual meetings, and working/training from home where the nature of the work permits.
- Higher frequency of cleaning of 'high touch' areas of facilities and equipment, availability of hand sanitizer and encouraging good hygiene.

I hereby declare that the above-named club has a written plan that follows the Government of Saskatchewan's Re-Open Sask, Saskatchewan Racquetball Return to Play Plan and Racquetball Canada's Return To Play documents while adhering to the SHA public health policies to ensure member safety.

The club's plan will be publicly posted and communicated it to all members prior to the club returning to play.

Only SRA registered coaches, officials and players will participate in activities offered provided they have all completed all the waivers and acknowledgments included in the Trackie registration process.

I understand that there is no liability or legal defence coverage for our club as per the Contagion Exclusion Endorsement with our Insurer at the time of this declaration.
