This is a keystroke macro to quickly get the screen cursor to a position on the mouseclick. It is used when it is difficult to click the cursor at the exact location to place your cursor. A handy way to do this is to open the Screen Tip program and enter your location and your selection (including space) into the screen tip. You can right-click on the screen tip in the taskbar to start it, after which a box will appear on the screen. The box is where the screen tip appears, and you can enter text into it to change the position of the box. By selecting and double-clicking on the box, it will be moved to the location you specified. Cut From File

Description: This is a cut-and-paste program. You can copy a file from one location to another. When you select a file from the Start menu and then press Enter or press Shift + Drag to select another file from the same folder, the copied file will be placed into another location. If you are not sure whether you want to copy a file to a different location, right-click the file and press Properties to see where you want to move it to. KEYMACRO

Description: When you copy a file from one location to another, you have the option of copying either a complete file or just the current selection. The drop-down menu allows you to select the options as follows:

Copy complete file: When you do this, the entire file will be copied.

Copy current selection: When you do this, the selection will be copied.

Deleting Files

Description: This program allows you to delete a file without actually having to locate it. By opening the Start menu, selecting the Files or Documents category and then pressing the Delete key, the file will be deleted. Finder Description: The Finder is the standard file search program on your Mac. It is included in the operating system and is the basis for other file search programs. You can use the Finder to locate files, create a search string, organize files, preview pictures and music, and preview movie files. From the top menu, you can select the Start menu to open the application, go to the Search folder to search for the file or folder you want to look for, or click on the Find in box to open the Find window. From the

If you are trying to print both sides of a PDF document, you will have to make sure that your printer has the capability to do this and that you have the right settings in place. You will also need to change some of your options in the printer's settings. All these steps may seem a bit complicated and require some specific knowledge. In addition, you will need to make sure that the document has the right permissions and that it is not being protected.

Easy PDF Two Sided is a small application which was developed for Windows. It lets you divide any document you want to print in two half and print them on both sides of the paper. It is important to note that it is recommended you access the application with Administrator rights, as to avoid any errors or other inconveniences related to the PDF document's rights. The idea behind the tool is to enable you to open documents and divide them into two parts, one of them being of the even faces and the other of the add faces. Therefore, when printing a larger document, you can be sure to have the even numbers printed first and then the odd ones on the right sheet of paper. The convenience here is that you do not need to waste a lot of time rearranging the sheets and making sure that they are in the right order.

How to Install: 1. Open Windows explorer 2. Click on a shortcut in the C: drive 3. Choose “Open command prompt here”. 4. Write “CD/Program Files” in the command prompt 5. Type “app\Easy PDF Two Sided.exe” and press Enter 6. You can find the app in the folder “Program Files\Easy PDF Two Sided”

How to Use:

1. Open the tool from the Windows desktop
2. Select the document you want to open and open it in the main window
3. On the bottom of the tool, you will see an “Excel icon”.
4. Click on it
5. A new window will open which contains two tabs, one of them being the even faces and the other one being the add faces.
6. Select the tab you want to print
7. Click on “Print” and wait 8. The print dialog window will appear 9.

Check the boxes for the prints you want to have on both sides of the paper 10. In the default configuration, the even pages are printed on the
