It's about a young girl named Melissa that lived in poverty. She worked 2 jobs from the time she was 14 till she was 23 years old when she married her high school sweetheart Stephen Thomas who worked at the nuclear plant.

(Nuclear bomb) He was a bit of an abusive husband. One night he came home drunk and started choking Melissa to sleep. In that same sleep, she could see her future, she could see her death. Melissa saw her life flash before her eyes. She could see the horrible things that would happen if she said anything to anybody. (Police would find her body in a few days) At that time he called the paramedics and said he was having chest pains. Melissa cried out for help but no one could hear her. Her life was in danger at that point. She knew that if she said anything, even if it was just a scream, she would die. She asked the God she didn't believe in to save her, but her prayers were left unanswered. No one heard her cry out and she died that night. At the funeral she gave her eulogy and gave her own damning account of what happened. She wrote a play about the night and her and her husband's nightmares. The film is based on the play's story. She eventually married a man that didn't abuse her (There are many in the world like that) and when they married she got all her money. Now she's a movie star and the center of attention at all her events. She has a lot of things going for her. This story is about how she ended up being in this good of condition. He still visits her and she visits him. AVI2Dvd Description: A film by the same name which is a fictionalized account of the true story of an
