HyperMotion Technology is built in the game engine to ensure that all stats and player controls are handled seamlessly on CPU and GPU by our game engine team. Teams can also manually select the CPU or GPU or switch between the two modes when necessary and it's never felt unnatural when playing. Yoda Neu, Senior Producer, MOBA Game Development: At PES, what we know is that, when you jump with your fake foot, the kick is working. When you run with your fake foot, your run is working. When you move your fake foot in the most natural way, the movement of your body is working. At FIFA, which has the most rigid control system in the world, we have to ask: "Are we controlling the player's movements or the player's movements are controlling us?" If you ask that question, you realize that, in many cases, you're only controlling the player's movements. That's why FIFA's gameplay is very good, because it is all about the player's movements. But if you think that it's not possible to make a good motion-controlled game, we have to ask, "How is it possible to control all the player's movements with only 360° controls?" In order to control a player's movements naturally, you have to control the movement of his body as well as the controller, so you have to extend the controller from 360° and control the player's whole body movement. It's not possible to control only the player's head movement using a 360° controller, but we were able to do it using the data from the player's motion capture suit. There are usually two ways of training players. The first is to have players play more games by watching replays, and the second is to provide players with a lot of motion capture data to teach their players the basics of real-life football. To allow players to train naturally and reduce the "pain points" of training, we took the second option. However, we had to make some adjustments to allow players to train normally. One of the most important changes is that we reduced the difficulty of tackles, because if a player, who has been playing a very high-powered game for his whole career, is tackling for the first time, the first few times are too difficult.

Features Key:

- Introducing "HyperMotion Technology".
- Career Mode lets you create your own club, design your kit, and select your mascot. From the Premier League to the Swiss Super League to the mini-leagues, there's a league for almost any kind of football experience imaginable.
- Player Development lets you progress year-over-year in the 3 main categories - physical, technical, and mental - and throughout each season, you'll be able to customize the attributes for each player. With dynamic Transfer feature, you can search the World Wide Web for other players around the world and watch their performance in a live match before deciding if you'll try to bring them into your club. All the selected player's attributes are customizable and can be leveled up by completing training drills.
- Ultimate Team is now even bigger and more intuitive, with more transfer possibilities, more line-ups to choose from, and the addition of player and team specific Ultimate Team cards.
- Innovative new FIFA Moments features, such as the pacy FIFA SBI Moments, Ultimate Team Harness, and Returning Tricks.
- Improved commentary and graphics, with more authentic broadcast cameras, improved pitch graphics and scenery, and on-pitch 3D animations and player models.
- FIFA Feats and new Ball Control skills - Master dribbling, anticipating the run of a player, anticipating fouls, and winning out of nowhere.
- The All-New FIFA Journey.

- FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. GAME MODES Career Mode – Live out your dreams as both a manager and a player in FIFA 22. Create the newest club in FIFA, design your kits, style your stadium, and choose whether to compete with the elite or rise up from the lower divisions as you manage your club to glory.
